

Learn. Discuss. Plan. Collaborate.

Collaboration breeds productivity. The average employee must collaborate with at least 10 people each day.* That, together with the growth of mobile workers and telework, makes the need for effective Collaboration solutions more important than ever!

Whether you are an HR professional looking to improve employee engagement and productivity, a facility manager trying to foster innovation, or a sales manager trying to better interact and collaborate with clients, you share a common interest ... improving collaboration.

Improved collaboration starts with the IT team

Central to improving collaboration is the trusted IT team, which is responsible for ensuring your organization has the proper tools to meet the demands of today's business environment. Often though, employees work in silos instead of collaborating across departments and lines of business. That is a critical barrier to productivity!

Clearly, it's time for a meeting of the minds!

Get started with this information-packed half-day seminar!

Cisco is going on the road and inviting organizations to attend a half day seminar to discuss:

- How to achieve common collaboration goals across Lines of Business (LOBs)
- Insights into collaboration market trends and what's new for IT and LOB buyers
- Breakthrough collaboration tools with benefits for any organization
- Strategies and considerations for implementing cloud-based collaboration

Together, we'll transform the way we interact and engage.

Invite a colleague to share the knowledge and insights!

We encourage the IT community to bring your colleagues who are responsible for improving collaboration in your organization – Human Resources, Facilities, Real Estate, Sales & Marketing and others.

Whether you're an IT pro or a line-of-business manager ... large enterprise, medium-size business or public sector ... you'll leave this seminar with new ideas and insights. It's a great chance to discuss common pain points, experiences and ways to use enhanced collaboration to achieve business goals.

This is a unique learning opportunity you simply can't find anywhere else. PLUS, for each colleague you bring, you'll receive an entry to WIN a DX 650.
